Is HD-Radio "The Answer" to AM/FM Radio's Youth Erosion Problem ?
- "NO" The Answer is Inter-Active Web-based Content Driven Radio Programming.

+ Plus here is and Up-Dated-Re-Write- 15 March 2008 {New Content}

IMHO - Arbitrons Days Are Numbered - When Every Radio Station
begins to have it's Own "People Meter" WebSite* taking the On-Line Pulse of It's Daily Radio Listeners 24 / 7 & 365 !
* When a Radio Station can get 10%~15% of it's Radio Listeners to Log-On Once-a-Week and Participate on It's Website : That Radio Station will then be able to Demographically Identify a Sub-set of those On-Line Participants as a Valid Sample {Cross-Section} of It's Radio Listeners and Program the Radio Station Accordingly.
* Plus the Website can Pay-for-Itself or become a Profit-Center for the Radio Stations by offering Targeted Advertisements to the Website Users.
* The Inter-Active WebSite for Radio Listeners -is- A Win+Win Feature of Any AM/FM Radio Station : Who Want's to Have a Future in Radio Broadcasting.
* The Mode of Broadcasting be it Analog or Digital -is- a Non-Issue for "Free" Over-the-Air AM/FM Radio Broadcasting.
* Radio-Content-is-King and The Future is Inter-Active Content

Radio Stations Need To Understand that at one time Radio-Listeners were simply Radio-Listeners -because-They had no other 'choice' : Today There Are NO Radio Listeners : There Are "Audio Consumers" and Radio Stations must Fight for 'their' Share of Today's Audio Consumers : Who have Many Choices in the Audio Content that they can Choose from and Listen to Every Hour of Every Day.

IMHO - Arbitrons Days Are Numbered - When Every Radio Station
begins to have it's Own "People Meter" WebSite* taking the On-Line
Pulse of It's Daily Radio Listeners 24 / 7 & 365 !
* When a Radio Station can get 10%~15% of it's Radio Listeners
to Log-On Once-a-Week and Participate on It's Website : That Radio Station will then be able to Demographically Identify a Sub-set of those On-Line Participants as a Valid Sample {Cross-Section} of It's Radio Listeners and Program the Radio Station Accordingly.
* Plus the Website can Pay-for-Itself or become a Profit-Center for the Radio Stations by offering Targeted Advertisements to
the Website Users.

Each person gets what they want from SWL:

If you want to know about the inside and HOW it works then go for it.

IF like me I turn it on and enjoy what comes out. My joy is keeping records, knowing what is going on where and why. I only listen to the news and a little of the local music.
This is what SWL is to me. I have done this all over the world night and day. I am doing it right now, I may be in China with my old YB400 next month, I may be on the beach with a long wire hanging in palm trees next week. I have a little oil lamp so I can read the schedules I down loaded and printed before I started out. I may turn the lamp out and just listen to Asian Music and watch the lamps on the little fishing boats with a ship going by from time to time, an airplane racing to an airport some place or watching the Satellites cross over head.

SWL is what YOU want it to be!!!!

I have enjoyed my short-wave radios for 52 years and I still do.

A conventional broadcast radio station can only be so interactive. How many different songs can it play at any given time? Sure add a few channels if you like, but it will never beat internet radio at this game. It will just be the red-headed stepchild of internet radio, handicapped by a cumbersome and costly infrastructure and an outdated business model.

It seems to me the wishful thinking is all on your side. The FCC and US Congress can have all the "will" they want. People aren't going to listen to HD radio so long as its content stinks, and it doesn't matter whether the FCC, Congress, or a billion radio spots tell them they're supposed to enjoy the crappy content. If the FCC were to actually ban satellite radio, internet radio, and perhaps conventional analog radio as well, then it might be a different story. This seems unlikely to happen, though

Wishing it would succeed isn't going to make it succeed, either. Your optimism about HD radio seems rooted in the belief that the government and a few corporate interests can force literally ANYTHING down peoples throats, no matter how uninclined they are to cooperate. I think the free market might turn out to be a more powerful force here than you imagine.

I don't know how you figure that out? If I switch the radio from AM mode to either USB or SSB my sensitivity is going to go up from 6.3 uV in AM to 0.5 uV in SSB. Apart from better circuitry some of the reason has to do with narrowing the filter. Icom states the AM sensitivity measured with a 6 Khz filter, whereas the SSB sensitivity is taken with a 2.4 Khz filter. As you narrow the filter so you increase the sensitivity.

> John, I seriously doubt that you will hear a station with the IC-7700

I think the likelihood is that I might get a few more stations over time. It has much higher and tighter specs, a 3 Khz roofing filter (versus the 756Pro3's 15 Khz) and digi-core select preselector plus many other features. My experience when upgrading from the already excellent Drake R8B to the 756Pro3 was that it is much nicer to operate and undoubtedly over time it gets me stations in difficult situations that the R8B can't do. As I am primarily a MW DXer an important feature is the ability of a receiver to separate the tight 9/10 Khz splits.

Where I am in Africa we are on 9 Khz MW station separation, whereas my target DX in the America's is on 10 Khz station separation. This leads to situations where I am trying to get say 1520 Khz Buffalo N.Y. whilst Saudi Arabia is pounding in on 1521 right next door. It takes a receiver with good specs to sort that out (in SSB/ECSS of course).

It's also a bit like upgrading your auto from an already excellent Mercedes C class to a superlative S class. If you can and you want to, do it and enjoy.

I had thought of a Perseus very carefully, but as of right now they haven't come out with the 800 Khz spectrum capture. Also a decent laptop and the necessary 500 gigabyte external hardrive are twice to three times the price here you pay in the States. I'll wait a bit. But SDR's with a 800 or more spectrum capture are definitely the way to go. All my DX buddies overseas have moved to SDR's and are getting good results.

I have just come back from Jongensgat5 DXpedition and at all three sunrises the great rare DX catches came in over a short half hour window at sunrise. Top of the hour was during that period and no matter how experienced you are there are just so many ID's you can record in those vital couple of minutes with a conventional receiver, whereas with an SDR you can capture a whole clutch full. Way to go.

Maybe one of my local DX buddies will move to one soon and I will have a better chance to evaluate the SDR's.

Hey Pete,

Thanks for the response. Ok on the 160ms. I'm only after talk radio so the bass guitar thing isn't going to be a problem. I'm picking up some of the local bc stations on the thing. I was planning on a plastic box, but looks like I might just stick it in a cast box. The Red sun is doing all the IF amplifing for now. It's got an IF out which makes it easy. Had I put a little more thought into it I might have stuck a sideband detector on the board as well. Anyway, it's the first pass at a board, so I'll probably do a re-spin down the road.
LT has a nice sharp filter chip out that you can set the cutoff freq with a pot. I'll get my email address of to you and you can send me any agc stugg you might have.

regards,
Bob

The SSB sensitivity is measured for an SSB signal, not an AM signal.
Going from 6 to 2.4 kHz bandwidth does improve sensitivity figures, but by far less than 20dB (6.3 to 0.5 uV).

Go to http://cnyack.homestead.com/files/modulation/modam.htm and adjust the sliders to .3 modulation. Look at the size of the green bars indicating the sidebands relative to the carrier.

When detecting AM the entire signal is involved in the measurement. When using SSB, only one of the side bands is used.

At this point, the sideband amplitude is about 15% of the carrier.

Since, in SSB, the BW is lower, there is less noise in the measurement.

Combine the two, and the difference in sensitivity begins to make sense.

Nope. You don't own a shortwave radio. You have a AMBCB radio and FMBCB but that's about it.

You don't "use" or to put it better "listen" to shortwave. I've looked

No. I call this garbage in, garbage out.

Look retard. I and anyone else can post endless reposts of the same crap. What you are doing here is killing the discussion. Do you understand that? Nobody can intelligently reply to a post of this nature without looking as stupid as you.

The concept is to post about something newsworthy and I mean a thing not a dozen links that tangentially have something to do with each other.

The point is to be specific about what you post for a subject. It could take even a page or two to state your opinion on a topic but your post should be about some one thing ideally.

You will not get this of course because you are an idiot.

I saw the patent for that duall loop that the CC+ uses. It appears to be similar in design to the balanced loops that Palomar, Quantun, and the new Palstar unit are using. The difference is that instead of using a balanced RF amplifier, a balun is used to give an unbalanced output of of the loopstick antenna. This approach shares the benefit of deep nulls because of the balanced design, but since a balanced differential RF amplifier is not being used, you wouldn't have the common mode rejection that the others have.
This would manifest itself with degraded rejection of flourescent light interference, etc. Still, a novel approach to get a "cheap and easy" balanced antenna design. Not a bad radio. If you want to spend a bit more, the Palstar R30, Drake R8 series, Icom R75, Yaesu FRG-100, and others of this type are good bets
For a portable unit, nothing beats the early Grundig Satellit receivers for MW reception. The 3400 was the last Satellit that used the old variometer design and the older circuit topology. Later units, such as the Satellit 600 and 650, although quite sensitive, were Philips designs, and they didn't have the dynamic range of the earlier units. These newer units used a Gilbert Cell mixer, similar to a 1496. Not bad, but not the best. The Satellit 700 series, although they have a cult following, aren't as sensitive as the older units.
Good bets are the Satellit 210, Satellit 1000, 2000, 3000, and 3400. The 3400 is my favorite, since it uses a monolithic crystal filter at the 2MHz 1st I.F. This gives the 2nd mixer good protection from close in IMD. 600MHz Ft transistors are used as the RF amplifiers on all ranges with the 3400, although many people prefer the Satellit 210 with its wood enclosure.

That sounds good.....since you are doing your own PC board layouts, I can also send you a product detector schematic that uses an NE602, and a sync detector schematic that uses an Analog Devices AD607. Both of them work very well. I was going to use the sync detector in a receiver I designed a few years back for a company called Silicon Engines, but they decided not to put it into production, so I have the only prototype in the world of the sync detector design.
I take some of this stuff with me to job interviews.....it seems to help in landing some of the contracts.

Hey Pete,

Thanks for the response. Ok on the 160ms. I'm only after talk radio so the bass guitar thing isn't going to be a problem. I'm picking up some of the local bc stations on the thing. I was planning on a plastic box, but looks like I might just stick it in a cast box. The Red sun is doing all the IF amplifing for now. It's got an IF out which makes it easy. Had I put a little more thought into it I might have stuck a sideband detector on the board as well. Anyway, it's the first pass at a board, so I'll probably do a re-spin down the road. LT has a nice sharp filter chip out that you can set the cutoff freq with a pot. I'll get my email address of to you and you can send me any agc stugg you might have.

regards,
Bob

Try to assemble a so called "fishing rod antenna". It covers from 10 meters to 40 meters and even the 3,5 mhz band if it is at least 9,6 mt. Here are some info about construction:
http://iw3hzx.altervista.org/Antenne/FISHINGPOLE/Fishingpole.htm
http://www.qsl.net/iz1dxs/Antenna_Rybakov.html
The overall cost is about 55 euro or even less. It is a fun to build and a pleasure to operate. It needs an antenna tuner to be matched. Give it a try.

K35454,

Taking-Off the Tuning Knob from one of my Grundig Satellit 800 Millennium Radios :

I examined it to find :

1 - The Encoder uses a Standard Notched "D" Shaft that is made of Black Plastic.

2 - Around the Shaft is a 1/2" Brass Collar {Tube}

3 - Looking at the Back of the Tuning Knob : There is the Metal Outer Knob; with a White Plastic Insert; plus a Metal Ball-Bearing; and a White Plastic "D" Hole to slide-on-to the Black Plastic Notched "D" Shaft .

4 - The Inner Race of the Metal Ball-Bearing fits-over the the Outer-Diameter of the Brass Collar; this is a Snug-Fit -not- Pinched-Fit.

5 - The Mechanical-Load of the Tuning-Knob is born by the Metal Ball-Bearing and the Brass Collar; and the Black Plastic Notched "D" Shaft just goes along for the ride.

NOTE - This is not simply a Metal Tuning Knob -it-isa Tuning Knob "Assembly" made of Metal, Plastic and Ball-Bearing.

FWIW - The "Variable" Turning Rate Function of the Grundig Satellit 800 Millennium Radio's Tuning Knob does not come from the Knob or Shaft -but- from the Function of the Turning Encoder 'itself' detecting' the "Rate-or-Turn" of the Tuning Knob :
* Slowing-down the Frequency Display Change when the Tuning Knob is turned 'slowly'.
* Normal Frequency Display Change when the Tuning Knob is turned 'normally'.
* Accellerating the Frequency Display Change when the Tuning Knob is turned 'rapidly'.

1300. What Radio Would You Grab For a Quick Getaway Or Long Hike

Greetings: I am wondering what radio people on this list would grab for a quick getaway with a back pack like for a couple weeks hike and campout in the wilderness, or for an emergency evacuation?

Keep in mind that you have to carry everything on your back and space is limited. Covering a.m., f.m. and shortwave of course....
And if you wanted to take an extension antenna... what one would it be?
Batteries and small solar charger?

1. Which radio and why?
2. Extension antenna? Which one?
3. Power... rechargeables and solar charger?

Weight and space critical.....

Radio? First off you'll want to grab your AK47 and a bunch of ammo. Grenades too, if ya got em.

Don't worry about grabbing a radio as you'll be able to get a bunch of those from the folks who forgot their AK47's.

I was listening to Neal Boortz this afternoon on WOOD 1300 and he mentioned fake names and a site that will generate one for you!

http://www.ronmexico.com/

I tried it out, and the first thing it spit out for me was "Karl Mauritania"

I thought that was interesting as I'm still trying to pry a QSL outta Mauritania!

I may have to try the registered mail route, though I've actually tried to go through their Embassy here, even speaking to them on the phone, and sending a tape to the Ambassador.

I don't have an AK47... I have a Swedish Mauser M-38 Short Rifle in 6.5x55 Swedish, and a Lee-Enfield No. 4 Mk I* in .303 British, and for a hand gun I have a Sturm-Ruger .45 Old Army stainless steel single action black powder revolver.
Not sure which rifle I would grab..... perhaps the Swede.

That's quite a high tech little radio Eric. I was thinking more along the lines of a Kaito KA11, or an Eton E100, with maybe one of those windup extension antennas, or a DE31MS or TG34 active antenna off of Ebay that can be folded up really small, topped off with a couple changes of rechargeable batteries and a small solar charger.

I'll have to look into the Yaesu VR-500. I imagine it is quite a bit more money.
Thankyou very much for your input, I hope many more will add their thoughts....

As to a actual radio, I'd grab my Yaesu VR-500. Small, lightweight, digital readout, uses 2 AA batteries. AM, FM, SW, LW, and a scanner as well. I use a Rat Shack extendable, but also have a reel antenna with adapter. Somewhere around here I have a solar AA recharger.

BTW, it has AM, WFM, NFM, USB and LSB. With a couple of key strokes, also has NAM. Another good feature is the bandscope. Great for looking for frequencies.

Of all my radio's, it's the one that travels the most. Second is my Sangean 909 that also has it's own solar panel (sold extra) that was made by or for Sangean,

One of the best and most economical vertical antennas is the Hustler 4BTV or if you want 80 meter coverage as well, the 5 BTV. I have a 4BTV ground mounted and not only is it great Ham antenna, but also a superb SW vertical. Mine has been in service for 8 years with absolutely no problems. It Is very well constructed and has very low backgound noise for a vertical. I highly recommend it. Hope this is of help, and...Good Listening. P.S. gettin kinda old meself, but I ain't tellin !!!

First time I had heard of them, I just looked them up.
I lived in Liberia and stayed in the Senegal compound but never knew of Mauritania!

Isn't it extremely embarrassing to post such a sappy farewell to the group and then quickly return? Have you no shame? Or the integrity to stand by your to words? We need to know Mr. Hershey Squirts so do tell!

I really don't want to say this, my many shortwave friends, but I find that I am giving up far to much of my increasingly valuable time here on RRS trying to educate the faux, the debutantes, and those who tote..

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in the

You don't need another AGC if the Redsun AGC is controlling its IF output, do you? Cascaded AGC's might be a problem. Maybe the Redsun AGC is poor and you will want to replace it with an outboard one. AGC can cause audio distortion if it is fast enough to chase the modulation. Pete's mention of 160mS AGC must be referring to the attack time constant or speed. A release time constant of about 10 times that is advisable to keep modulation tracking very low. If it was symmetrical 160ms attack/release, then it would do a very good job tracking 6Hz modulation (a rarity) but would still have a 10% sensitivity to 60Hz and 1% at 600Hz. Then there is the concept of 'hang' AGC, where the release is delayed, maintaining constant gain through the delay unless a greater attack is enountered that requires a gain reduction and a new 'hang' delay. This is particularly effective at avoiding modulation tracking if the hang time is equal or greater than the attack time and allows a faster release without jeopardising modulation tracking distortion.

I don't know whether there is any big advantage between audio derived and IF derived AGC as long as there is modulation. You mention talk radio so I assume that is DSBAM with carrier. The IF derived AGC will output an AGC voltage affected by carrier strength and to some extent by modulation so it will maintain an appropriate gain even during long pauses in modulation. An audio derived AGC would increase IF gain during silence and thus might permit peak distortion or clipping of the next audio, especially if it begins with a plosive. Were this suppressed carrier AM, then both would increase gain during pauses.

You would probably get more informed opinion than I can offer if you were to post to rec.radio.amateur.homebrew.

Good luck with your project!

Tom

I thought this "dxAce" imbecile was finally going to leave this newsgroup in peace and shut his propaganda-spewing, lowlife mouth.

There are white supremacist boards where your fourth grade mentality would be welcomed. Why not go there?

Stupid half-wit, you're not welcome here. Get a clue, oblivious one.

Post proof of your statement, or be revealed to be a deliberate liar.

Acceptable proof is a standard reference work. Please post a list showing Canada as a third world country.

You can't, cause you're a liar, and a scumbag name-caller who is Definitely more complicated but possible. An example would be the RX340 with analog AGC in the front end followed by digital AGC.

The design goal for the radio AGC is to set an optimum level in the IF chain for the following mixer input or detector depending on the radio architecture. This is complicated by having to overcome path fading so the AGC has to react properly to conditions. Sometimes the fading is rapid and other times much slower. An additional complication is the radio has AM or SSB detection modes. One set of AGC constants is not going to do the job. Generally, the Drake AGC scheme with a slow, fast, and off would be a minimum workable arrangement for a radio with various detectors.

For a AGC slow you would want 1 to 3 seconds and for fast something in the hundreds of milliseconds. You definitely, as you wrote above, must avoid a response that could follow the audio modulation so you would need to filter the response to less than 5 Hz. Actually the fastest response you would most likely want is 250 ms.

I would start here: http://www.eham.net/reviews/products/13

Keep in mind with a traditional monopole (one radiating element) vertical, the vertical element is only half of the antenna system.
The other half is the counterpoise/radial system, or the "ground".

Thus beware of "magic" verticals like this one: http://www.eham.net/reviews/detail/5175

Although it's very convenient, notice the lack of any substantial radial system. Also beware antenna claims to be broadband and require no tuning. The "matching network" may well be resistors absorbing power that otherwise would reflect back and deflect your SWR meter, but the power is wasted as heat and you get a false sense of efficiency due to a low SWR reading.

Unless you have space for an extensive radial system, I would gravitate towards an oldie-but-goodie, the vertical dipole. This is just a standard dipole stood up on its end. (Although some variants end-feed the half-wave antenna and get virtually the same results, thanks to the very high (around 2-5K ohm) impedance feedpoint, allowing stray capacitance from the coax or a small counterpoise to create a balacing current flow efficiently without a radial system.

End-fed halfwave verticals are inherently NOT broadband. Center-fed verticals can be fed with a tuner and will probably work better for multi-band use.

Here is one interesting design that has gained some very good reviews. It's a folded halfwave vertical design, center-fed:
http://www.eham.net/reviews/detail/2489
http://force12inc.com/sigmasv5gt5info-002.htm

Ironically, although in theory a halfwave vertical is considerably better than a vertical monopole with a poor radial system, or over poor conductivity soil, it's not at all ground-independent. Turns out either a vertical monopole or vertical dipole will excel when located above a large ground-plane of salt-water. So a portable antenna like this, taken to an ocean beach, might just outperform a much "better" antenna over average soil. :)

Hope this helps.

From Wikipedia the name Canada most likely comes from a St. Lawrence Iroquoian word kanata, meaning "village" or "settlement". Sounds third world to me.

I would also say helping to prop up a communist dictatorship is third world thinking.

Most third world countries SW stations come in here better than Canada so I guess that would actually make them 4th world.

And you sound like an idiot that uses google instead of a real news server.

Oops, apologies. I posted the link to a slightly different antenna than I meant.
I meant to post this: http://force12inc.com/sigma5info-002.htm

Note that you can build your own verticals too, if you're handy.

But however you go, check eham reviews just to make sure you're not getting a "dud". :)

Actually, you do need AGC when using an MC1350. Each stage provides about 60dB of gain at 455kHz. If you don't have some sort of gain control on the stage, you will drive it into clipping. Been there, done that. My first attempt at a sync detector was a quasi-sync detector, similar the the implementation Drake uses with their "Synchro Phase" detector, and similar to the design used for AM recovery in the Racal 6790.
It used a 1350 as a limiting amplifier that was driven into clipping by the radio's I.F. strip. This chip squared up the signal for the LO input of a Philips SA-637 digital FM radio chip. The point of this is that I intentionally let the MC1350 run at full gain, so that I could run it into clipping, thus, squaring up the signal.
Now, about that time constant.....true, that 6Hz is the -3dB corner frequency, but this is fine for attack/decay characteristics. In the real world, there is no problem with modulation of the AGC bus. Ten times this time constant would be way to long of a decay time.....we are talking about 1.66 seconds here. 500 milliseconds would be better for a release time for AM signals.
A hang AGC is fine for SSB signals, but for AM full carrier signals, it would be very inconvenient. As far as cascaded AGC, there can be oscillation problems of the control system if you are not careful when designing it. You could grab the AGC line from the radio that you would be using, and scale/translate the levels with a couple of op-amps. The MC1350 requires a 5V knee point at Pin5 that your AGC voltage is superpositioned over. As I stated before, the AGC system for a 1350 is fairly complex; that is the reason that I suggested a TDA1572. The 1572 is a much better chip for this purpose, since it has its own AGC/demodulator system on board. In addition to that, a few external components can be used for independant attack/decay parameters. If you don't need SSB demodulation, a TDA1072 has the same functionallity, minus the buffered 50 Ohm I.F. output.
The 160 millisecond time constant was mentioned in Ulrich Rohde's book, entitled "Communications Receivers, Principles and Design". I didn't pull that figure out of a hat.
You do have some good suggestions, Tom.

Pete

"You don't need another AGC if the Redsun AGC is controlling its IF output, do you? Cascaded AGC's might be a problem. Maybe the Redsun AGC is poor and you will want to replace it with an outboard one. AGC can cause audio distortion if it is fast enough to chase the modulation. Pete's mention of 160mS AGC must be referring to the attack time constant or speed. A release time constant of about 10 times that is advisable to keep modulation tracking very low. If it was symmetrical 160ms attack/release, then it would do a very good job tracking 6Hz modulation (a rarity) but would still have a 10%

sensitivity to 60Hz and 1% at 600Hz. Then there is the concept of 'hang' AGC, where the release is delayed, maintaining constant gain through the delay unless a greater attack is enountered that requires a gain reduction and a new 'hang' delay. This is particularly effective at avoiding modulation tracking if the hang time is equal or greater than the attack time and allows a faster release without jeopardising modulation tracking distortion.

I don't know whether there is any big advantage between audio derived and IF derived AGC as long as there is modulation. You mention talk radio so I assume that is DSBAM with carrier. The IF derived AGC will output an AGC voltage affected by carrier strength and to some extent by modulation so it will maintain an appropriate gain even during long pauses in modulation. An audio derived AGC would increase IF gain during silence and thus might permit peak distortion or clipping of the next audio, especially if it begins with a plosive. Were this suppressed carrier AM, then both would increase gain during pauses.

You would probably get more informed opinion than I can offer if you were to post to rec.radio.amateur.homebrew.

Good luck with your project!"

Tom

I ain't white, but unlike you, I dislike no one.

Shame? Sorry, I'm not a dumbass Canuck. Blow me, boy.

You dumb sand niggers (sorry, I categorize ya all this way) need to understand that you need to get your collective shit together...

I said it before, and I say it again... Vicente Fox is a stinking piece of Mexican shit.

Mouth wide open, ready to take a load.

After eating the taco's wouldn't they be capable of gassing themelves?

Or better yet, go get yourself some IBO Cock!

Canucks need to be castrated.

Wonder why.... could it be that the Canucky Niggah is timid, afraid...?

Hey, buttfuck boy... try to pay attention, you little piece of non-listening excrement.

Actually VA facilities are quite good, but if you Canucky niggahs poke around one might find a lot of things wrong.

Why are the retards mostly dumbass Canucks?

Damn, the Canucky Niggah didn't have a damn thing to say...

Run along little Canucky dweeb.

Stuff a taco in it, Ramon!

Obviously you're just a retard boy who failed as a corporate manager.

Did I say it was, shit for brains?

I thank the Great Spirit every day for the fact that I'm not white like you.

Because you're a moron, Druggie!

Ace is doing ok!

They don't call me 'Ace' for nothing!

And you, just another retard on the short bus.

All of my DX is better than your DX no matter what I do.

It is then my patriotic friend, you must reach in the closet, place your hands upon the weapon, and blow the cock sucking, bean blower back into Mary's arms....

You claim to be 'Cherokee'... I think you're just 'Wannabee'...

How many American lives were affected by the slant eyed shit throughout the entire war?

No need to do anything more productive than cash the checks, invest the money, do some DX'ing, and rile up the mentally ill Canucks!

Why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (1)

LOLOLOLOLOLOL... what a damn dumb cunt you are!

Now get your homo ass working on that documentation, boy!

Give it a shot queer boys, I dare ya!

Dumbass Canucks, sure ain't Rolex wearin' respectable folk...!

Cocksuckers such as your self.

Hit the road, 'tard.

Toss 'em all, especially the Canucks!

So, just why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (2)

Now go suck on some sushi, you little miscreant.

I just asked you to have the cunt send me a letter, boy.

So, just why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (3)

Yes, I am witty, and I am wise!

"I'm so obese I had to get the extra heavy duty plastic blow-up doll"

Let me sum up, you Canucks are assholes!

So, just why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (4)

Hit the road, drug addled fool.

Shame on CanaDuh for killing thousands of people every day.

Be sure to tell the bitch to send me that letter, faggot!

get your bitch daughter to send me a letter

Inquiring minds want to know just why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (5)

Have the bitch send me the letter!

Well, go tell your other cocksucking countrymen.

Hey, have the bitch send me a letter

I can show her mine, and she can show me yours?

Ain't gonna happen, ya got no air farce, ya got no ne vuy, va goy nuthitin?

If you think for a moment that they'll listen to a drunken dumbass Canuck you'd be sadly mistaken!

Have the bitch send me a f00kin letter!

You folk really think ya got balls?

Now run along to wherever it is you little debutantes run off to...

I'll be waiting for that letter from your daughter, asshole!

Oh yeah, tell me baby...

Hey, little pussy boy, we spell it "cunt" out here, just like I think I spelled it originally, boy.

Never touched the skanky,,,

If I don't get that letter, boy, then you and your daughter must both be drunk, eh?

Finally shut you up, eh boy?

Have the bitch send me a letter on whatever letterhead YOU might make up.

Ain't that just speshul! He's got to go find somewun to fake him a lettter.

Have the bitch send me a letter on her firms letterhead, boy.

Great, then get your bitch daughter to send me a letter on her firms letterhead within the next two weeks!

Have your daughter draw up a contract, BOY!

Hey, 'Edurado', have your daughter get in touch with me, amigo

True, ain't it, little faux Hispanic BOY.. (Heavy emphasis on the BOY!)

Guess that shut the little boy up!

Stuff it up your prancing ass, 'Tardo!

I'm LMFAO, since I've busted the f00kin faggot!

You are after all a drug addled 'tard boy who obviously knows little about the SWL/DX hobby.

Go blow some IBO Cock, and leave the real radio hobbyists alone, OK?

Let the faggot boy prove it!

LMFAO at the f00kin faggot

Go give your boyfriend a blow job!

Talk about misery, you're in f00kin CanaDuh, boy!

Something for your faux Hispanic cock sucking brain to think about, eh?

Poor little cocksucker just had it handed to him

Eh? You sum dumass Canucuy bithyboy...

As long as it screws you Canucks, I'm a happy camper!

They are mere asswipes, suitable for flushing.

That's because you're a fucking liar!

Cry me a f00kin river.

Awwwww... the poor whiny dumbass Canuck is back at it again today.

Huh... you be just another stupid white boy outta Cleveland...
I suggest you get together with your "significant other" and bump butt with each other,

Because I hate White Boy Canucks who suck cock...

Best you shuffle down the alley! That's what your mama wanted!

Crazy Retarded Australian People?

"Even 2 cents is more than a totally worthless Canuck"

Funny how the US Govt. sent me over $50,000 last year

You can preDICK all you want, you fraudulent cock sucking, pathologically lying old bastard boy!

Hey, dumbfuck Canuck, I was not asked to leave!

I don't use Chink stuff

I went and bought ammo... I still gots it case them tard boys such as edweena gets stirred up.

And 10,000 rounds isn't a lot.

It was Russian ammo. I don't like the Chinese stuff.

Now where did I put that other case of ammo..

I don't use Chink ammo.

That's not Canuckian, boy!

Kiss my ass, pedant!

I'm LMFAO, Mr. Gay-Lick!

Obfuscate, you little prancer!

LMAO at the 'tard.

Thing is, you 'tards are pretty fixated upon one set of parameters.
That is after all why you are considered to be 'tards!

As always, your head is up your f00kin ass.

You fuckin' Liberal asswipes are always ready to give somebodys else's goodies away...

And, hopefully, my dumbass cousin in Mill Valley will leave me her Corvette.

Obviously, you leep your head up your f00kin ass all day long.

I don't 'fear' homos, oh faux one!

Liar, liar, pantalunes on fire! (2)

Apparently you are the 'bendover boy'....

Do you spit or swallow?

Oh, I certainly have, time after time.

At least I went farther than you!

Good lubricant for you and the boys?

It's what dxAce uses!

that's good enough for me!

One can never slide the BS by dxAce

Not as well as you, fudge pack.

Go for it, dumbass!

Oh come on... it's Fall forward and Spring back. Everyone knows that!

Hit the road, drug addled fool.

Hey, I love kickin' gay-lick ass!

Pretty much what I indicated to you a while back, you f00kin prancer.

The only thing you know about short wave is that that is what your mother gave you when she sent your f00kin ass packin' outta Cleveland.

Screw the drug addled retards.

Nah, I only attack the messenger when he/she/it is obviously drug addled.

So, beat the rush and get the hell off of RRS, you f00kin retard.

Well, in you, we have a drug addled retard in our midst.

Get over it, you fake Hispanic piece of excrement.

And when you do confront HD, you'll have Cocksucker Dave and
The Prancer Boys to thank for it.

Damn... I'm of mixed race ancestry myself, what ever should I do?

Next time we come over the pond once again to save your sorry ass's we'll have to dismantle that stuff.

Heck, I bought 1000 shares of FSEAX the other day.

Don't do business with the Huntington Investment Company, in particular a fellow named Joseph Klein.

Not at all, we are both Miami Indians. ya got a problem with that, boy?

Ya right, suck my dick...

Believe it, it's like a dream to be with you again...

Then hit the road, you drug addled retard.

Just like you wish that you worked for me, retard!

Proven time and time again, fudge pack.

Get it, retard?

Dey done unnerstannn that us nateev boyyys R real Mericans!

I sure he is.

Insert your Gay-Lick reply here, boy:

And yet another Liberal rant

Sorry, I'm not a racist like you, Edweenie...

Nah, he was fake little cock sucker like you!

Your pathological lying is an offense to me, and more than likely an offense to God as well.

No medications here, cock sucker boy..

Stuff a watermelon up it

But that stuff isn't what dxAce uses!

Come on now, you being a nice Liberal, Carbon Footprint, Al Gore, Cock Sucking kinda Canuck Bastard..

I won R plantation up nord, dat dem dum ass Canuckys be oween us, ya be 'standin me?

CanaDuh is stupidity!

Stupid little pussy faggot!

Liar, liar, pantalunes on fire! (3)

Mr. Edweenie, the forces of Good are gonna come visit your sorry fake Hispanic White Boy Ass if you keep it up!

Pay attention, cock sucker...

LMFAO as I sit and look at my royalty cheques...

You've done this before, cock sucker...

LMFAO at yet another dumb friggin Canuck..

I know it may be hard, but as you withdraw, it will shrink away..

Oh damn, I guess we pissed another wanker off, Cuz..

I get my ride be fixed, I be cruisin to be givin ya da shake, yu be knowin, eh?

Try again, shithead.....

Dem Canucky boyz are dumaz rasissts..

We gone be sen u to sumplac bad boy... u be so bad weben the reel Canuckys won wan u.

Fookin bustards! Like Edweenie!

Best you wake up soon... fookin retard leetle beetch..

Fookin 'retard.

Indeed, I'm now at WAR with Canuckistan..

May the Great Spirit help the hapless bastards.

At any rate, I'd bet it beats the Canucky Third World state of care...

CanaDuh sucks...

Wanna go to war, shit head?

Think you might win? Think you got a chance?

If you don't... I'd keep my fookin Canucky mouth shut, boy...

Meanwhile, I plan for the Spring campaign, looking forward to the Blind River Massacre.

I collect stamps!

The Old-Media AM/FM Radio Station has to be both a 'conventional' Broadcast Radio Station [One-Leg] :

Plus a New-Media Audio Portal {WebSite} that allows for a gret deal of Listener Audio Consumer Inter-Action
[The Other-Leg].

That is the "Bridge" for them for the Next 10~20 Years and part of a Survival Stratigy for that period of time.

-IF- New-Media Wins Out then over time the AM/FM Radio Station New-Media Audio Portal {WebSite} will become a greater part of the New Business Model.

The relative Value of the Old-Media AM/FM Radio Station will decline -while- The relative Value of the New-Media Audio Portal {WebSite} will increase.
The two together will transition the Radio Broadcast Corporation into a Multi-Media Corportation that is at it's Core an Inter-Active Media Provider.

The present day Old-Media Corportations have a better financial basis to fund and endure the next 10~20 Years of this transition then many of the New-Media Strat-Ups -plus- Old-Media Corportations have the Money {Cash-Flow} to Buy-Up the better
New-Media Ventures.

Media is a Dynamic Market and the next 10~20 Years will see many challenges and changes.
* My Bet is that Old-Media will Morph into some form of New-Media with an Old-Media Legacy {Branding, Radio Stations and Towers} with the old-media filling in where the New-Media still can not go.
* The Key "Thing" that Old-Media has is established
"Branding" and present day Audio Consumer Loyality to help it 'make-the-transition' -while- New Media must build it 'brand' and build a base of loyal Audio Consumers.
* Things are weighted in Old-Media's favor in the near term to transistion and survive over New-Media at the Corporate Mega-Media Level.

Mumbler - Then any form of Free Over-the-Air AM/FM Radio : Be it Analog or Digital is doomed.

I don't see that happening in the in the short term as many of the Anti-Old-Media Haters here seam to think. Maybe in 30 or more Years -but- not in a dozen or less. ~ RHF

Hi Garth,
As long as you use a nice grd wire like 14, 16, 18 or even 20 it will be OK.
Be sure that the rod is getting a good grd like a wet spot in your yard and like 6,8 or 10 ft' long, deeper the better.

Each person gets what they want from SWL:

If you want to know about the inside and HOW it works then go for it.

IF like me I turn it on and enjoy what comes out. My joy is keeping records, knowing what is going on where and why. I only listen to the news and a little of the local music.

This is what SWL is to me. I have done this all over the world night and
day. I am doing it right now, I may be in China with my old YB400
next month, I may be on the beach with a long wire hanging in palm trees
next week. I have a little oil lamp so I can read the schedules I down loaded and printed before I started out. I may turn the lamp out and just listen to Asian Music and watch the lamps on the little fishing boats with a ship
going by from time to time, an airplane racing to an airport some place or watching the Satellites cross over head.

SWL is what YOU want it to be!!!!

I have enjoyed my short-wave radios for 52 years and I still do.

There is no requirement to to ground the BalUn (UnUn) directly. The antenna lead (coaxial cable outer conductor) must be grounded at the point where it enters the building. That is where the main ground should be.

I agree with Telamon about the two release speeds for speech programming: the long release for fairly stable signals and the shorter for rapid fading. The longer one gives lower distortion due to modulation tracking. Under really stable conditions (local groundwave), lowest distortion would be obtained by turning AGC off and setting the RF Gain manually.

Pete, given that the Redsun already has AGC, why couldn't the 1350 be manually set to an appropriate gain to match the controlled level coming out of the tuner?

I have done a fair bit of investigation and modification of AGC circuits in the Radio Shack DX-394 and the Yaesu FT-817 and been surprised by the experience. Did a lot of research on published specs or test reports for high-end radios and other articles. There seemed to be a rough consensus about release speeds corresponding roughly to what Telamon cites for speech/music; for interrupted CW and for data modes, below 25ms seemed to be the desired speed. What was more confusing or contentious is the attack - some radios citing sub 1ms! Moreover, good audio compressor/limiters also have very fast attack to prevent peak clipping and broadcast Peak Program Meters integrate over 10ms, effectively ignoring peaks very much shorter in duration as these are psychoacoustically inaudible. I modified the AGC for the DX-394 with sub 10ms attack for all release speeds and then was dismayed with the effect of impulse noise - long holes in audible modulation or even continuous suppression if the repetition rate was high enough. Unless there is an IF noise blanker ahead of the AGC detector, an attack that is proportional to the release is necessary, something on the order of 5-10%.

With the FT-817, I found that the effective AGC speed is inversely related to the RG Gain control setting and is very much faster than the RC time constant would suggest. Pete, you mention a 'knee' with the 1350 around 5V - I think the FT-817 has a knee around 1V and follows a square law characteristic such that most gain variation occurs over maybe a 100mV slice out of the 3V range over which the AGC and RF Gain control swing. Hence, I have been unable to eliminate what I think is quite objectionable distortion due to modulation tracking, even with a release RC time constant on the order of 2.5s and an attack RC time constant pushed up from a few ms to over 100ms. Modulation wiggling the AGC by a millivolt distorts the IF envelope delivered to the AM detector. Listening to DSBAM in ECSS mode (SSB) significantly reduces distortion because the filter skirt suppresses bass energy.

In cases of high ambient noise, such as at my QTH, the following approach taken from "Broadband Receiving Antenna Matching, Mark Connelly, WA1ION ï¿½ 15 July, 2003" has worked for me; at this time I do NOT ground the feedline coax at any point, instead it is buried in plastic conduit at a depth of 3 feet for a distance of thirty feet (from the shack to the antenna mast), and the balun's ground wire is only six feet in length (the balun is in a waterproof box at the feed end of the longwire, which is configured
'Marconi'-style with a short sloped section to the mast insulator.

I use a quadrifilar winding as described here:

> 30.5 m (100 ft.) end-fed horizontal longwire, about 1.5 m off ground

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Today marks the 40th Anniversary of the My Lai massacre. Some things never change in this world do they, they just change countries.

By BEN STOCKING, Associated Press Writer 35 minutes ago

MY LAI, Vietnam - Forty years after rampaging American soldiers slaughtered her family, Do Thi Tuyet returned to the place where her childhood was shattered.

"Everyone in my family was killed in the My Lai massacre -- my mother, my father, my brother and three sisters," said Tuyet, who was 8 years old at the time. "They threw me into a ditch full of dead bodies. I was covered with blood and brains."

More than a thousand people turned out Sunday to remember the victims of one of the most notorious chapters of the Vietnam War. On March 16, 1968, members of Charlie Company killed as many as 504 villagers, nearly all of them unarmed children, women and elderly.

When the unprovoked attack was uncovered, it horrified Americans, prompted military investigations and badly undermined support for the war.

Sunday's memorial drew the families of the victims, returning U.S. war veterans, peace activists and a delegation of atomic bombing survivors from Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Still wearing the bras Cuhulin sent you? It will help you hit the high falsettos of Rudy and the gang. All you cross dressers know what 'falsetto' means, especially those of you in the gay community who use the words 'pantaloon' and 'debutante' in normal conversation.

Get help for your alcoholism, Bozo. Your lack of heterosexuality is

I really don't want to say this, my many shortwave friends, but I find that I am giving up far to much of my increasingly valuable time here on RRS trying to educate the faux, the debutantes, and those who tote..

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in the

So I'm moving from a house in LA to an apartment in NYC.

Right now I'm using a Sony AN-LP1 suction cupped to the window in NYC and getting good reception.

If I place my RF Systems T2FD partially rolled up (too big to unroll all the way) across the window sill, will I get even better reception? I'm wondering if the T2FD will be better than the AN-LP1.
The T2FD is a total RFI killer and really opened up the shortwave band to me at my house in LA. Wondering if it might do the same in NYC, but it would be partially unrolled across the window sill. Thanks all.

CHINA SLAUGHTERS 80 PEOPLE WHO HAVE THE TEMERITY TO PROTEST FOR THEIR FREEDOM

By TINI TRAN, Associated Press Writer 58 minutes ago

BEIJING - Violence in Tibet spilled over into neighboring provinces Sunday where Tibetan protesters defied a Chinese government crackdown. The Dalai Lama warned Tibet faced "cultural genocide" and appealed to the world for help.
ADVERTISEMENT

Protests against Chinese rule of Tibet were reported in neighboring Sichuan and Qinghai provinces and also in western Gansu province. All are home to sizable Tibetan populations.

The demonstrations come after protests in the Tibetan capital Lhasa escalated into violence Friday, with Buddhist monks and others torching police cars and shops in the fiercest challenge to Beijing's rule over the region in nearly two decades.

"Whether intentionally or unintentionally, some kind of cultural genocide is taking place," said the Dalai Lama, the exiled Tibetan spiritual leader. He was referring to China's policy of encouraging the ethnic Han majority to migrate to Tibet, restrictions on Buddhist temples and re-education programs for monks.

He told reporters in Dharmsala, the north Indian town where Tibet's self-declared government-in-exile is based, that an international body should investigate the government's crackdown on the Lhasa protests.

Tibet was effectively independent for decades before Chinese communist troops entered in 1950. The latest unrest began March 10 on the anniversary of a 1959 uprising against Chinese rule of Tibet.

The protests are an embarrassment for China, coming just weeks before the Beijing Summer Olympics ceremonies kick off with the torch relay, which is set to pass through Tibet.

Thubten Samphel, a spokesman for the Dalai Lama's government in exile, said multiple sources inside Tibet had counted at least 80 corpses since the violence broke out Friday. He did not know how many of the bodies were protesters. On Friday, the exiled government said at least 30 protesters had been killed by Chinese authorities and the number could be as high as 100.

The official Chinese Xinhua News Agency has said at least 10 civilians were burned to death Friday. The figures could not be independently verified because China restricts foreign media access to Tibet.

In Sichuan province, Tibetan monks and police clashed Sunday in Aba county after the monks staged a protest, said a resident there who refused to give his name. He said one policeman had been killed and three or four police vans had been set on fire.

The India-based Tibetan Center for Human Rights and Democracy said at least seven people have been shot dead in the county. There was no way of immediately confirming the claim.

In Qinghai province, 100 monks defied a directive confining them to Rongwo Monastery in Tongren city by climbing a hill behind the monastery, where they set off fireworks and burned incense to protest the crackdown in Tibet.

Businesses were shuttered, and about 30 riot police with shields took up posts near the monastery. Police forced journalists to delete photographs of police.

In western Gansu province, more than 100 students protested at a university in Lanzhou, according to Matt Whitticase of London-based activist group Free Tibet.

A curfew was imposed in Xiahe city in Gansu province on Sunday, a day after police fired tear gas on a 1,000 protesters, including Buddhist monks and ordinary citizens, who had marched from the historic Labrang monastery.

Large communities of ethnic Tibetans live far outside modern Tibet in areas that were the Himalayan region's eastern and northeastern provinces of Amdo and Kham until the communist takeover in 1951. Those areas were later split off by Beijing to become the Chinese province of Qinghai and part of Sichuan province.

Lhasa appeared to remain under a curfew on Sunday, though some people and cars were seen on the streets during daylight. The government has not announced the curfew but residents said authorities have warned them not to go outside for several days now.

Hong Kong Cable TV said about 200 military vehicles each carrying dozens of armed soldiers, drove into the center of Lhasa on Sunday. The footage showed mostly empty streets, but for armored and military vehicles patrolling and soldiers searching buildings.

Loudspeakers on the streets repeatedly broadcast slogans urging residents to "discern between enemies and friends, maintain order."

Xinhua said most shops in the Old Town area of Lhasa, which saw the brunt of the violence, were still closed Sunday. It said some shops in other parts of the town had reopened.

China's communist government is hoping Beijing's hosting of the Aug. 8-24 Olympics will boost its popularity at home as well as its image abroad. But the event has already attracted international scrutiny of China's human rights record and its pollution problems.

International criticism of the crackdown in Tibet so far has been mild, with no threats of an Olympic boycott or other sanctions. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice called Sunday on China "to exercise restraint in dealing with the protests."

Rice said she was "concerned by reports of a sharply increased police and military presence in and around Lhasa." Her statement urged China to release those jailed for protesting.

The radio shack is a separate structure, unconnected with a residence.
I also have spark-gab protection on the feedline, but it is not directly grounded due to noise issues. Later this year I plan on trying other grounding schemes to mitigate noise further.

Who said you had to use the whole name? After all, you signed QSL's (allegedly) with the name David F. Gleason, when you could have used David E. Gleason. But at least on your 'business card' it might have been a good idea to use David Eduardo Gleason.

But you didn't, because you didn't dream up the 'Eduardo' shtick until circa 2000.

Another example would SSB where if the station transmitting pauses in speech the background noise pops up. This also happens when one ham ends his transmission and the another ham starts transmitting. Here you would want the long response time. Most of the time on AM broadcast I use the short response time. A polar path with rapid flutter would be an exception for AM broadcast where I would then use the long response time.

Britney Spears is a good example of positive feedback in a AGC circuit.

Now does that make any sense to you? There is a meaning there. Give it a shot.

RF grounds need to be as short as possible. Arrange the wire antenna so it ends on top of a ground rod for the best RF ground. This is easily done with a sloper, inverted L, or Beverage antenna. Other then that optimal situation no more than a few feet long.

The parasites (government bureaucrats) stopped fulfilling their responsibility to protect American citizens decades ago. They now serve the interests of their corporate masters. They barely feign to disguise this fact any longer because it is so transparently obvious.

The only role the American public has in the process is paying their bloated salaries and the gravy train of benefits (health care, vacation, retirement pensions, ad naseum) that real working folks can only dream of having.

It is not just the FCC. Witness the FDA allowing China to poison the American public with tainted food and products. Witness the Dept. of Agriculture allowing 140 million pounds of beef from sick cattle to enter the marketplace. Witness the Dept. of "Defense" allowing $9,000,000, 000 cash disappear in Iraq with no explanation. You could go through every government department and find like outrages.

From a Machiavellian perspective one must admire what the corporate oligarchy has so successfully effected in the USA. Instead of fighting with the only entity that could possibly stop their criminal agendas they simply co-opted it. And as if to put icing on the cake, they have the American taxpayer pick up the tab. Brilliant.

I had great luck with mounting it outdoors here in LA. Best antenna I ever used for eliminating RFI in an urban environment. That's why the US Consulate in Jerusalem uses it! See here: http://www.simonmason.karoo.net/page498.htm

Just wondering if it will work well in the window.

Well, like I said, try it and see how it works. That's the only way you'll find out.

You just found out that a closed loop antenna will work better in a locally noisy environment.

What did you use for a BALUN?

What are the dimensions of the antenna you built?

Good Advise DX Ace,

The old expression goes : Seeing Is Believing.

-wrt- Radio : Hearing Is Believing.

And ultimately until you have tried it for yourself : You really Telamon I bought it from Universal Radio it's made by RF Systems and has an integrated balun. Awesome antenna.

If this antenna is too unruly on the window sill, I will sell it on ebay and you all can take a crack at it. Auction will include the antenna plus a 100 foot coax run as well as a shorter 25 foot coax run, both with terminations.

That is a good antenna design for receive. It's OK for transmit but depending on circumstances that resistor dissipates some power.

I'm not quite sure what you mean about the window sill as this is a big antenna. As with all antennas the higher up you can get it the better it will receive distant signals.

You can also carry away EMF by wrapping gnd around your wire NOT on the bare wire, just close as a bleed.

This is wrong. You do not want the AC power supply return to be your RF ground. There is a lot noise on the power ground. You want a ground under the antenna ideally and one that is not used for any other purpose.

I agree.....longer release times are fine, as long as they don't get too long for AM DSB mode. For SSB reception with a product detector, a long hang time is fine.
As for the MC1350 device, I wouldn't push more than 30uV into that device if it doesn't have AGC. You could ride the gain manually, but what is the point of installing a device that has 50dB additional gain if you are going to set it down to 10dB of gain so that it doesn't run into clipping. I know.....both Ten Tec and at least one other company were using that chip as an I.F. amplifier, but better results can be had with the Philips TDA1072, TDA1572, JRC NJM2552, Analog Devices AD600, and AD607.
The 1350 has quite a bit of gain, and it makes a great limiting amplifier. Even though some manufacturers have implemented this device with an unbalanced output circuit, it really works better if you feed the V+ through a center tapped I.F. transformer. The Toko RMC502-182NO is perfect for this application. I ended up modifying my old Ten Tec receiver in this manner, and it picked up quite a bit more gain. This chip has a 15 to 18dB noise figure, which means that you need to have quite a bit of gain in the front end to override the noise in the I.F. strip.
A perfect example of what happens to this device can be illustrated with some of the measurement receivers, such as the Sierra 128A or some of the Siemens measurement receivers. These units don't have AGC, and they will overload on relatively weak signals. When properly implemented, the MC1350 is a great device.....it's just that there are better devices available today. You can even use an FM demodulator chip for listening to AM signals. There was an article in RF Design magazine back in the mod 90s that used an antilog amp to linearize the RSSI output of the chip, and demodulate AM signals in this manner.
I was actually going to take that route, but then I discovered some of the other chips that were suited for this purpose. Somewhere, I have an article that uses some sort of CMOS switch to demodulate AM signals. This demodulator has around 70 or 80dB of dynamic range, so AGC isn't needed with this type of demodulator. I have to dig it up and scan it one of these days.
Telamon is right on the money about those decay times.....the 160 millisecond time constant is ok, but longer times do tend to give a smoother sound to the demodulated audio.
I hope this helps.

I agree with Telamon about the two release speeds for speech programming: the long release for fairly stable signals and the shorter for rapid fading. The longer one gives lower distortion due to modulation tracking. Under really stable conditions (local groundwave), lowest distortion would be obtained by turning AGC off and setting the RF Gain manually.

Pete, given that the Redsun already has AGC, why couldn't the 1350 be manually set to an appropriate gain to match the controlled level coming out of the tuner?

I have done a fair bit of investigation and modification of AGC circuits in the Radio Shack DX-394 and the Yaesu FT-817 and been surprised by the experience. Did a lot of research on published specs or test reports for high-end radios and other articles. There seemed to be a rough consensus about release speeds corresponding roughly to what Telamon cites for speech/music; for interrupted CW and for data modes, below 25ms seemed to be the desired speed. What was more confusing or contentious is the attack - some radios citing sub 1ms! Moreover, good audio compressor/limiters also have very fast attack to prevent peak clipping and broadcast Peak Program Meters integrate over 10ms, effectively ignoring peaks very much shorter in duration as these are psychoacoustically inaudible. I modified the AGC for the DX-394 with sub 10ms attack for all release speeds and then was dismayed with the effect of impulse noise - long holes in audible modulation or even continuous suppression if the repetition rate was high enough. Unless there is an IF noise blanker ahead of the AGC detector, an attack that is proportional to the release is necessary, something on the order of 5-10%.

With the FT-817, I found that the effective AGC speed is inversely related to the RG Gain control setting and is very much faster than the RC time constant would suggest. Pete, you mention a 'knee' with the 1350 around 5V - I think the FT-817 has a knee around 1V and follows a square law characteristic such that most gain variation occurs over maybe a 100mV slice out of the 3V range over which the AGC and RF Gain control swing. Hence, I have been unable to eliminate what I think is quite objectionable distortion due to modulation tracking, even with a release RC time constant on the order of 2.5s and an attack RC time constant pushed up from a few ms to over 100ms. Modulation wiggling the AGC by a millivolt distorts the IF envelope delivered to the AM detector. Listening to DSBAM in ECSS mode (SSB) significantly reduces distortion because the filter skirt suppresses bass energy.

I would like to trade a new, in the box Grundig/Eton G5 SW radio for a working, good condition RS DX-160. I would like the speaker also if possible but not necessary. The 160 must be functional on all bands, no projects. The G5 has never been out of the box and is brand new. I have an ebay account under monty55 if you need reference. I have 100% feedback.

Thanks,
Tom

Who said anything about AC power? I'm assuming we're using batteries; so what? Code specifies that the lead be grounded where it enters the building. If you're getting noise from your grounds they aren't very good grounds.
